The Wild-Cat Detaht.

Every vote cast in the house in favor of repealing the tax on the state bank issues, that is to say, in favor of fourtyfour kinds of wild-cat paper money in stead of one kind good everywhere, was a Democratic vote. If the dispatches give the record accurately West Virginis cast but one wild-cat vote, and that was the vote of Mr. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee. The only defense Mr. Wilson can make is that he stood on his party's platform, which demands repeal of the tax so that wild-cat money may come to the front again. Mr. Wilson's district is supposed to be Democratic, but it is safe to say that there is too much intelligence in that district to demand wildcat money if the naked proposition were put squrely at the voters.

E Mr. Pendleton and Mr. Capehart had the courage to bolt their party's platform on this question and cast their votes for honest and safe money. Mr. Alderson's name does not appear in the record of the vote as it came by telegraph.

West Virginia stands, therefore, as having cast one vote for the repeal bill and two against it. This is doing very well seeing that the whole delegation is Democratic and the bill was in harmony with the Democratic platform.

The Wounds of a Friend.

In an editorial article Harper's Weekly weeps over the fall of Cleveland the leader, going to far as to call him "a shorn Samson." This because he has not now the grip on his party that he had during his first term. He may command but his party in Congress does not obey. In fact he is discovered to be beloless. The Weelly does not doubt that he "is as ardent and pure as ever," but he has turned politicism, and that has proved his undoing. He has sought to placate with counsulables and to bring into line with marshalships, and the old thing won't work any more. This is very, very sad.

There seems to be nothing for Mr. Cleveland to do but to stop being a politician and to get back on his high perch of eight years ago, when he was able to run the machine his own way. At least it is worth trying.

A Time For sober Thought.

It is time for the rioters across the river in Ohio to begin to do some thinking. The governor of the state has put in the field part of the military force at his command to restore order and protect property. He will put in the field the whole military force of the state if need be. He will discharge his sworn duty to the utmost without fear or favor. That is the kind of a man he is, and the rioters should bear this in mind.

The United States marshal is in the field with his deputies, and he will be supported by the military power of the United States. The majority of the law is represented by force enough to deal with the rioters.

The mob will be dispersed and the trains will be set in motion with their freights of coal. If the rioters be wise they will make no further lawless demonstrations. There is no success for them on this line. The merits of the strike have nothing to do with the case. The mob must stand back or be hurt.

A Demngogue Governor. The governor of Colorado places himself on the side of the Cripple Creek rioters and forbids the deputy sheriffs to move against them. The governor of a state has no right to interfere with the efforts of the sheriff of a county to enforce the law, and when he tries to do this he makes himself liable to im-

It is a pity that force must be used to restore the supremacy of the law, but so long as the rioters defy the law with force, superior force, if the county can command it, is the only resort.

The situation has been aggravated by Governor Waite's undisguised sympathy with the rioters. It is a curse to any state to have such an executive.

Reform School For Girls.

Among the objects the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this state is seeking to attain the most important, perhaps, is the establishment of a reform school for girls, or a place of refuge for those of that unfortunate class in whose hearts the seeds of re-classes, conditions and creeds. The women of this organization propose moving on the next legislature with petitions and their own stirring eloquence, which will command the respectful consideration of the members of that body.

There is a reform school for boys. Why not a helpful refuse for the weaker class of incorrigibles, where proper treatment and instruction may save many to future usefulness and honorable life? Itss a problem of easy solution and untold possibilities for the friendless and the scorped who are hardened in their sine by seclusion and contamination in the jails of the state.

Oft Quoted Lines.
O'Hara's beautiful poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead," is drawn on by scores of speakers on every Decoration The most frequent use is made of the last four lines of the first stanza-"On Fame's eternal camping ground." On Decoration Day just passed a Chicago newspaper got at the quotation in

On Fame's eternal camping ground.
Their vilent tents are spread.
And Glory walks with allemn sound.
And guards the bivodes of the deal.

This, of course, spoils the sense at well'as the meter. A reader of the newspaper, observing that something was wrong, undertook to quote from memory the lines as they are inscribed over Are portal of the national cemetery at Aflington, and this is the way his mem-

On Fame's eternal camping ground. Their silent tents are spread. And Glory, with uncessing swind, Guards the birouse of the deal. The correction does not correct. This is the way the lines were written:

The modified dram's and role has beed.
The solidler's last tattoo:
No more on life's period e sail meet.
The orave and fallen few—
Ou Fannes electral campion round.
Their silent lends are spread,
also four promise, such so con small,
The bissole of the dust.

There is an impression that the poem was inspired by the civil war as a tribute to the Union dead. It was written after the Mexican war by Theodore O'Hara, a Kentuckian who had served in that war and was chosen as poet on the occasion of the unveiling of a monu-ment erected in Frankfort to Kentucky's dead. O'Hara commanded a Confederate regiment in the civil war, was afterwards editor of the Mobile Register and finally succumbed to John Barleycorn.

Governor Flower, by vetoing the appropriation for the conduct of this investigation, thought to still conceal the scarlet sins of Tammany, but he did not count on the liberality of the Chamber of Commerce, which immediately subscribed the amount necessary to continue gimletting the truth out of the witnesses.

As the outcome of this probing the Democratic New York Herald, which has been a strong friend and apologist for the Tiger, comes out for Rev. Dr. Parkhurst for mayor, claiming that he is a man upon whom all enemies of Tammany can consistently unite, and that by his active efforts in the present investigation he is peculiarly equipped to continue the fight against this monstrougly venal cabal.

Come On With the Conventions.

The big casino at the park is one of the best assembly halls in the country. It holds the people and they can see and hear. Wheeling has now a convention hall for all purposes, and the people of the state are politely requested to take due notice thereof. If the political parties are looking for an ideal place for this year's conventions they need seek no further. The casino in the park is what they are looking for, and Wheeling will be glad to do what she can to make the occasions pleasant and memorable

The behavior of the weather yester day encourages the belief that we are to have the summer season with us soon. We trust the sun will raise the blockade and get down to business at the old stand, as we can't send troops to prod

THE wild-cat and yaller-dog menageries are not to be turned loose just now. The Democratic platform demands it but the Democratic house can't do it. This pledge is better broken than kept.

They can put wild-cat money in their platform, but they can't put it through the house, in spite of their big majority. The thing is too rank.

THE Wheeling park's big casino is a big success. So are the Elks. It is a great combination.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

The memorial tower which is being erected by the Russians on the highest point of the Mount of Olives at Jerusalem, is already several stories high, and but one more is to be added. It is to be so high that both the Mediterranean and the Dead seas can be seen from the top.

A romantic wedding was solemuized at Augusta, Ga., recently. Charles O. Young and Ann M. Fackard, who were divorced twenty-eight years ago, were the contracting parties, they being united at their daughter's home, she never having seen her father until a few days before the coremony.

The Chicago Record prints the following as "live news:" "Galway O'Rourke, candidate for Congress in the Second district, has the finest bull terrier pup in Cook county and other conspicuous claims to political preferment."

In Melbourne, Australia, two varieties of hardwood, the jarrah and the karri, native to that place, are used in street paving. They are also used in paving the carriage ways of London, and last much longer than the pine.

BELMONT COUNTY'S DELEGATION

An Open Letter to Colonel Poorman by an Old Friend and Comrade, of Bridgeport,

DEAR COLONEL:-So many mislesding statements and false impressions have been made in reference to the con-gressional contest in Belmont county, that I deem it my duty to plainly de-fine the position of the six Bridgeport delegates and the manner in which they were chosen.

When a committee of your friends

When a committee of your friends from Bellaire came to Bridgeport on or about May 15, they were mot by several Bepublicans and after some talk on the situation a proposition was made to your Bellaire friends as follows: That no contest be made in Bridgeport, but that her delegates be sent to the convention who would not be prejudiced for or against Col. Poorman or Mr. Dantord, but would stand by the Belmont county candidate having a major-mout county candidate having a major-mout county candidate having a major-most county candidate having a major-ity of the delegates outside of our pre-

Cincis.
Your friends said, "That would be fair and honorable." The following day they returned to Bridgeport and said you fully approved this agreement. There was more to this compact, colonel, as you and your Bellaire friends well know. We all thought and complete the said of the said control of the said of the said control of the said of colonel, as you and your Bellaire friends well know. We all thought and openly said that it would be a wise policy for Belmont county to present to that con-vention only one candidate. You en-dorsed this idea in my presence, and your Bellaire friends did the same in at least seven different interviews with Republicans here, and I heard them; and in furtherance of this same idea your friends assured us again and again

Republicans here, and I beard them; and in furtherance of this same idea your friends assured us again and again that none but good, sensible, conservative Republicans would be chosen as Poorman delegates in Bellaire, men who would cheerfully go to Mr. Danford if he had a majority of delegates in this county. This was the whole germ and the sole purpose of this compact. The Bridgeport Republicans thought delegates could serve their party and their county best by going to the convention uninstructed, and thereby vention uninstructed, and thereby wield a better influence in making Bel mont county's sixty-six votes solid for either of her worthy and distinguished either of her worthy and distinguished candidater.

If this be not good politics, it is at least good common sense, and you approved it, worr triends approved it, and Capt Danford approved it. The latter gentleman fully acquiesced in it, and said to the writer:

"I will not go into that convention the tail end of anything. I will have forty-one delegates from the county;" and again he said: "I will not head a minority delegation from my own coun-and again he said: "I will not head a minority delegation from my own county in that convention."

This language is not misleading and bears no dual meaning. Your friends here understand you to occupy the same position.

The delegates here were named at a meeting called by the central committeemen and attended by them and such Republicans as usually do that kind of work, and it was no "scoret meeting." as has been stated by your pretended friends. The four precincts were carefully cauvassed and persons were selected such as were known to be for a Belmont county candidate, and who accepted in good faith the plan proposed.

Your Belling friends said the delay

Now, come these same would be friends when your forty-seven Belmont friends when your forty-seven Belmont county delegates as were claimed certain for you and by you fade into a minority, and they dive down into the dead past of twenty years ago and compare Danford's rote with Grant's vote, and they say again you were "to be controlled by the votes of the people at the primaries and not by a majority of delegates chosen." Is this not splitting very fine hairs for a refuge for your friends, colonel?"

If these, your whilem friends, have compromised you, and lost the battle for you, don't visit your wrath upon the county and party that have honored you and have been honored by you so much.

But lol on Saturday last a Poorman ticket appeared and was fought for very bitterly, if not a little meanly, until the polis closed, and the leading mischief-maker, in violating the compact, say you and your friends advised it. Two to one was the verdict against your ticket. When your advised that second ticket you forfeited all claims under the compact, and you know that's good law and some more "common sense."
